LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.

Wreck on the Wabash.

A troublesome wreck occurred on the Wabash last evening about 9 o'clock between Milmine and Bement, which compelled all the east bound trains to take their run over I. D & W. road and then back to Bement The collision was due to carelessness on the part of the conductors who overlooked orders. The colliding trains were the 4th 99, in charge of Conductor Doyle which left Bement, going west and the 2nd 76, in charge of Conductor Brainard, which left Milmine, going east. When about midway between stations the trains collided, the force of the concussion stoving in the fronts of both engines and derailed five cars It took five hours to clear away the debris, it being necessary to ditch two of the cars

A Probable Result.

The people of the country generally will rejoice at the report that a treaty of reciprocity between the United States and some of the South American nations is being framed as a result of the Pan-American Congress The trade of the South American nations belongs naturally to the United States, and has been by artificial means diverted to Europe If the Pan American Congress results in building up a market in South America for our manufactured goods—our cotton and woolen goods, our iron and other manufactures—the efforts of Mr. Blaine through the Pan American Congress will be a triumph worthy the ambition of any statesman.

Metropolis' Loss.

Adjutant General Vance, who was sent to southern Illinois by the governor to investigate the extent of the damage done by the cyclone, reports the damage at Metropolis at $80 000, upon property in that vicinity at $20,000. Fifty houses were destroyed at Metropolis and as many others damaged The injured are being properly cared for, but funds are needed The work of rebuilding has commenced At Grand Tower the condition is reported as much more serious. The sufferers have not even temporary necessary shelter, and have lost everything They need money and clothing

THE KNIGHTS AT CHURCH.

Beaumanoir Commandery Observe Easter at Stapp's Chapel.

Sunday afternoon the members of Beaumanoir Commandery No 9, Knights Templar, observed Easter by attending services at Stapp's Chapel. The service was held in the auditorium and seats at the front were reserved for the Sir Knights, nearly 60 of whom in full uniform marched from the asylum to the church, in command of W H Acuff, the Eminent Commander The banner was carried by Sir Knight J. W. Alexander.

The church was filled by members of the congregation and strangers, many of whom had never before seen the Commandery in a body at a religious service The space near the rostrum was tastefully decorated with an Easter floral display, comprising a large cross of snow balls, white roses and water lilies, also calla lilies, hydranga and potted plants.

Special music was rendered by the choir, Mrs A W Conklin, Mrs. John D Henkle, Miss Minnie Pitts, Sherman McClelland and W L Shellabarger, with Miss Anna Henkle at the organ The selections were the anthems 'Sanctus Spiritus," by Faure, and "Cantata Domino," and the hymns, "I know that my Redeemer lives and "The head that once was crowned with thorns is crowned with glory now." The Lord's Prayer was spoken in concert by the Commandery and prayer was offered by Rev Sir Knight James Miller, Grand Prelate of the Illinois Grand Commandery He also gave the scriptural lesson from the second chapter of Acts.

THE SERMON

Rev. Sir Knight George E Scrimger, pastor of Stapp's Chapel, delivered the Easter sermon extempore. It was a thoughtful and logical discussion of the force and reward of abiding faith in the personality of Christ and His resurrection. A synopsis of the discourse is given below

TEXT

"Jesus saith unto him Thomas, because thou hast seen me thou hast believed blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed John xx 29

Our Lord has arisen triumphant o'er the grave He endeavors during the forty days intervening between that and His ascension to prove that His resurrection has been accomplished since it is a fact so fundamental to the whole Christian system For this purpose he met with the ten disciples on the very day of His resurrection But he was not satisfied with the one interview, for Thomas was not present A week later He is with them again and the skeptic is there also In submitting to the test demanded by Thomas He shows forth the depths of humility into which He is willing to go in order to rescue His child from honest doubt and confirmed skepticism Had Thomas doubted then he would probably have lapsed into irremediable doubt and so our Lord puts all His tender solicitude into the appeal, Be not faithless but believing Thomas is fully satisfied as he exclaims, My Lord and my God It is his testimony to the divinity of Christ To his mind it was satisfactory evidence as it ought to be to every human mind—that if Christ arose from the dead He was divine He was convinced that He had so arisen therefore he believed Him to be divine Christ said to him, Thomas because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed blessed are they that have not seen and yet have believed By thus declaring the superior blessing of those who would believe in Him though they would see Him not, to that of those who demanded the testimony of the senses, our Savior expresses a great truth viz That rational faith is an attainment higher than that which is merely in the testimony of the senses

Such faith rests upon the dependable foundation of the rational processes of the human mind Rational belief founded in the results of honest and industrious investigation and is therefore more trustworthy than that faith which has no other basis than the temporary testimony of the senses Thus it is that we attach more importance to the opinion of a man who has made any line of investigation a specialty than to the opinion of one less devoted In the one case we say that the man has had great advantages for investigation has devoted many years to his special studies, and his conclusions are presumably correct In the other we say that the man has had no special advantages and is likely to be controlled in his opinion by the momentary testimony of his senses Accordingly we send for experts to give testimony in our courts, employ experienced teachers for our schools competent physicians for our sick and men of high legal attainments to manage our trials in law

Now the testimony of the senses is valuable in its place but it is only one of the various kinds of testimony which the mind requires in making its verdict in any given case At best such testimony can only be corroborative of a preconceived theory, or serve to show the inconsistency of the theory and thus become a witness in the case If the testimony of our senses support our theory, well and good if not, then our belief is in a measure corrected, and is not half so noble in its character as that belief which while it is the result of employing the testimony of the senses in its proper place is yet the rational product of the mind advancing according to the heaven imposed order of thought Never can the testimony of the senses be always relied upon Every physician knows that in an abnormal condition of the nerves and circulation of the blood the sense of touch may be greatly mislead ing An object that feels cold may actually be warm and vice versa Through some disarrangement of the mechanism of the eye that organ may deceive us, while the diseased ear frequently becomes a false interpreter to us of the sounds of surrounding nature But even when the senses are in a normal condition their testimony is often deficient and unsatisfactory while a rational belief broadens and enriches our knowledge and in its conclusions reaches sublimer heights than can ever be reached by the mere evidence of our senses Suppose for an instance that your knowledge must be limited by what you can actually test through the medium of the sensorium and how circumscribed will be the circle of that knowledge At once you are cut off from all knowledge of the past that comes through the channel of history which knowledge is essential to a proper understanding of many things which do now exist, you limit yourself to those things which you may be able to visit and verify their existence by your own eyes touch and hearing, so that he who travels most will necessarily know most, yet he can only know what he sees during a short life time and at best can only know this little world of ours You close at once by one wide act very largely the windows of your mind through which you may look out along the radiant paths of science and philosophy, for both proceed in a marked degree along the line of a larger faith than that of mere trust in the testimony of the senses So you see that he who boasts that he will believe nothing but what he can hear and see and touch has very little of which to boast Consider also how limited would be commercial transactions if we had no faith in the unseen The merchant would be compelled to visit foreign ports before sending thither his cargoes of merchandise while in the very voyage of investigation he would be required to have faith in the invisible But our merchant princes are not so incredulous and they load their vessels to the water's edge with costly goods and send them forth to India's Coral Strand, never seen by them, and the white winged ships come back after awhile laden with the treasures of that far off land

You wish to visit the British Isles and the continent of Europe You have never been to London but you believe the testimony of those who have seen that city So you deposit a thousand dollars in a New York bank, receive a check on a London bank you have never seen in a city you have never beheld, on the other side of an ocean you have never explored, confident that when you reach the other shore you will find the city bank and necessary funds for your continental tour Thus our knowledge and transactions are broadened by rational faith in the unseen, and thus a foundation is laid for those lofty conclusions that never could be reached through the mere testimony of the senses Take one simple illustration from the realm of science Yonder is a man who understands the noble science of astronomy engaged in an astronomical calculation Now in this problem there enters of course faith in the testimony of his senses, as aided by his telescope he has looked into the depths of the cerulean sky, but he has faith also in the invariable working of certain laws of nature by means of which he is able to complete his calculation His eye flashes with the consciousness of grand achievement for he is able to predict an eclipse of the sun a hundred years in the future Sublime triumph of science! It seems almost prophetic The century rolls by and the sun is darkened at the exact time predicted by that astronomer, a hundred years before Now how much more noble is the science of that astronomer predicting that eclipse, than that of the ignorant clown looking through his piece of smoked glass, ignorant alike of its cause and consequences! It is only when we take the standpoint of rational faith that we obtain any true view of man's powers and possibilities Such faith elevates us above the brutes that perish, emancipates us from the bondage of the sensual, and renders possible those high conclusions that are at once the source of exquisite delight and the seal of our heavenly origin and destiny Why should it, therefore, be thought a thing incredible, that just as our faith resting on sufficient testimony of a natural character, ascends to conclusions in nature and human life far beyond the realm of the senses, so our faith, resting on adequate testimony of a supernatural nature, should rise to the sublime height of the spiritual and eternal! Thus rational faith, like the massive foundation of a noble structure, is imbedded deep in the trustworthy movements of the human mind underneath all lies faith in the fundamental products of mind and consciousness The building arises in stately proportions, as faith brings knowledge, and knowledge warrants greater faith, and that brings wider knowledge, and thus the alternate brick and mortar of the mental structure ascends until its lofty spire is bathed in the upper air of the spiritual and man sees and man thereby ascends to God Let us examine for a little time the basis of rational faith in Christ as the Divine One First of all, our faith rests on the record God hath given of His Son We are among those who have never seen with the natural eye the Saviour of Men But we have a record that He did arise from the dead and if He did arise He is divine "Many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of His disciples, which are not written in this book, but these are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the son of God, and that believing ye might have life through His name Is the record true? The time has been when Christians feared somewhat to meet this question but that fear happily, has passed by forever Strauss endeavored to show that the New Testament literature was simply the growth of myths that had grown up around the founders of Christianity—through the exaggerations of His idolizing disciples It was supposed a generation or two ago that the earliest New Testament writings dated back to the year of our Lord 180 Christ was crucified in 34 so that a gap of 140 years intervened between that event and the account given by the earliest Christian writers—a sufficient time, according to Strauss for the whole system of myths that constitute the gospel to originate Renan claimed that these gospels were simply legends that arose during the interval But, written in the granite of history, are the more undoubted facts that Paul died in the reign of Nero, and that Nero died in 68 It is also admitted by all candid infidels that four of the epistles, viz 1st and 2nd Corinthians Romans and Galatians were written by Paul Paul died before 68 and of course wrote these epistles before he died We know that Paul wrote his epistles before Festus succeeded Felix in the government of Judea, which occurred in 60 Paul was imprisoned two years before this succession in Cesarea and wrote them before his imprisonment, so that this brings us down to 58, and all agree now that in 58 or 60 these four epistles were written Now 58, less 34, leaves only 24 years, which is certainly not sufficient time for myths to grow up Has there been time in this land of ours since the War of the Rebellion for a perfect system of myths to grow up concerning that war Now in these four epistles we find that the accounts given by the evangelists of the life, death and resurrection of Christ were written within twenty four years of the ascension of Christ received by hundreds throughout the Roman empire from Jerusalem to Rome itself There were living at the time when Paul wrote, men who had been eye witnesses of these events, so that his testimony is that practically of undoubted cotemporaneous history to the fact of Christ's resurrection from the dead Surely, my brothers, we stand on the solid rock! Then, in addition to this historical basis of a rational faith is that inner experience—that heart-glow, which in the believer's soul is akin to that experience of the two disciples on the way to Emmaus, upon that first Easter Sunday When we come close to Christ in faith and loyal loving surrender to Him, there is a glow of love and holy desire kindled in the depths of our nature that we rationally conclude can only have its source in a living, divine Christ And this faith abides Do you see that Italian who entertaining the idea that this world is round, seeks royal patronage in vain at various courts that by sailing westward he may find a nearer way to the East Indies He applies at last, successfully at the court of Ferdinand and Isabella of Spain who fit out vessels for the voyage Columbus points his vessels toward the setting sun and sails forth upon the trackless deep Forty days go by, and there are no signs of land the crew many of whom had been forced to undertake the voyage, become discouraged, as they think of their happy homes which they never expect to see again They conclude that they are the dupes of a reckless adventurer and become mutinous See them as with dark brows they gather in groups and whisper of insurrection now they boldly declare their intention to throw the commander overboard But that man of mighty faith and iron will calmly tells them that he has set out to find the East Indies, and will sail on until he touches their shore Now they become slightly hopeful as fresh water weeds float by and a bush with clusters of berries upon it and a carved stick which they eagerly examine But still their straining eyes can only see the long ridgy waves their white manes soaring and in the broad gleam disappearing the broidered blazing sun declining in western waves like molten floods shining See Columbus, again and again ascend the main mast, to catch the first glimpse of the shore His face wears the calm and strength of conquering faith Now one evening he is peering out into the gathering shadows and he sees a faint light of glimmering yonder, and with all the joy of his faithful soul he cries out Land! Land! At two o clock in the morning his advanced ship prays to and with music and mirth they celebrate the triumphant close of their long voyage Brother Knights that was an abiding faith

And so our faith abides, "for now abideth faith, hope and charity We have a more sure word of prophecy than stray floating weeds and carved wood coming to us from the eternal shore even the record God hath given us of His Son The body of a dead man belonging to an unknown race picked up on the coast of Spain is said to have inspired the hope of a western world But the presence in this world of the Living Christ speaking to us of the other shore from which he came yea the mighty risen Lord, who has conquered death and returned to His native Heaven, is our sure evidence that there is a land beyond the shining waves that wash this shore, and the pledge that we may reach that country by and by Voices of our loved ones seem to reach us and if we follow the Master faithfully after a little time, from the lookout of the goodly ship Zion, as the evening shadows of life settle about us, we will see just beyond us the bright light of the City of God and greet our friends at the landing, waiting to welcome us home Brother Knights may this faith that we have espoused at our beloved altars that breathes in our inspiring ritual, and that is emblazoned on our conquering banners be indeed a living transforming power in our hearts and lives so that when our crusade of Christ like benevolence, defense of virtue and truth, and fellowship of faith and charity is over we may be advanced to that degree conferred alone by the Grand Master, and Most Eminent Commander of us all the Lord Jesus as He says to each of us "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord Then will we pass in through the gates into the city ground our spiritual arms at His feet and looking upon Him, in His beauty realize the rich blessings of those who though they have seen Him not on earth yet have believed

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Miller, in the absence of Rev. Sir Knight Pinkerton, who was absent officiating at a funeral and the audience remained seated while the Commandery marched out of the church

COMMISSIONER RAUM is still keeping quiet but is working the Pension Department greatly better than ever before. The department has issued 15,615 pension certificates in the four weeks ended March 22 as against 6,012 for the corresponding four weeks of 1889, or nearly double the number issued by his Democratic predecessor for the same four weeks of that year. These are all general law pensions representing just claims and this speedy action of the department gives great satisfaction to both pensioners and the public.

Suicide of Marcus C Stearns

Marcus C Stearns, a millionaire of Chicago and the father in law of Ex Mayor Harrison, attempted suicide on Saturday at his house on Michigan Avenue by shooting himself four times in the head. One of the shots was in the mouth almost splitting the tongue in two. No one seems to know the cause, though his family state that he has been depressed in spirit for some time, probably owing to the death of his favorite daughter, Mrs Harrison.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Grover Cleveland has told some college students in Ohio that he [illegible] there are questions and topics which press upon the minds of our people the solution and treatment of which are of vastly greater importance than the political fortunes of any man." Precisely, and the people of the United States had an opportunity in 1888 to pass upon one of these questions and topics. Their verdict was clear and conclusive. Put in the simplest terms, it was [illegible] electoral votes to 168 [illegible].

Death of Dr Wm Fithian

A dispatch from Danville, Ill, announces the death in that city on Saturday of Dr Wm Fithian at the advanced age of 91 years. Dr Fithian was born in Cincinnati and had lived in Danville since 18[illegible]. He was an active politician a generation ago and served for several terms in the legislature. He was provost marshal of this district during the war and was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in 1862, when Joe Cannon first took an active part in Congress [illegible] in this district. He amassed a large landed estate in Eastern Illinois, on which the town of Fithian was built. Gen J C Black, late commissioner of pensions, was his step son.

A WOMAN will be found at the bottom of all mischief, said a Persian King and "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," said the poet. It turns out that a woman was at the bottom of Mayor Grant's downfall, socially and politically in New York City, although not immediately responsible for the blow that crushed him. Grant when in his humbler days advanced to her, and when, through her father's [illegible] gained political and social position, he turned his back upon her [illegible] father swore to be revenged. It was the father who revealed the secrets [illegible] the investigation, and ruined Grant's career. The lady was more forgiving than the old gentleman however, and was persuaded him to leave the city so that he might not have to testify against Grant. There's romance of love, crime and retribution in a nutshell.

Burial With Masonic Honors

The mortal remains of the late Rev E Prior Moore who died at Springfield were consigned to the grave in Greenwood Sunday afternoon with impressive Masonic ceremonies. The body was removed from the McGoodwin residence on West King street to the African M. E church where Mrs Eva Lewis, of Champaign the chief officer of the Illinois Grand Court of Masonic Ladies conducted the ceremonial funeral service and at the grave the ladies read the burial service of the order. The ladies of the Decatur Court were in the cortege, as were also the members of Decatur Lodge No 17 colored Masons. At the grave James Hollinger District Deputy Grand Master, and W M Woodford the W M of No 17 conducted the Masonic ceremonies. The pall bearers were George Robinson Stanton Field, Lewis Earnest, Geo Valentine John [illegible] and Edward Thompson.

At the church the services were conducted by Rev C H Sheen assisted by Rev A Ward Grand Chaplain, of the Illinois Grand Lodge and [illegible] Gray Chaplain of Decatur Lodge No [illegible]. The sermon was delivered by Rev Charles H Sheen. Text, 2d Samuel 1st chapter part of the 17th verse "Oh Jonathan thou wast slain in thine high pla[ces]."

Representatives from other lodges in the state were present and many friends and members of St John's church, Springfield of which the deceased was pastor. The late Rev E P Moore had filled the offices of Sunday school superintendent class leader steward and local preacher in the A M E church of Decatur before he entered the ministry. EASTER IN DECATUR.

The Great Religious Festival Observed at the Churches.

The beautiful Easter services in memory of the risen Lord were observed with appropriate songs, sermons and exercises at all of the Decatur churches. It was a lovely spring day, with just a little sprinkle of rain, and all the favored ones had neat suits and pretty bonnets, and consequently their hearts were filled with joy. All of the churches were handsomely trimmed with flowers, and the congregations at every church were large without exception.

AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The Episcopal church was beautifully adorned with flowers—potted plants in the windows glass rose jars filled with fragrant roses vases on the altar in memory of the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J Quinlan, floral designs in the chancel, floral offerings by Mrs Samuel Tibbets, a sheaf of wheat and Marechal Neil roses. Most of the flowers came from Springfield. The Easter sermon was delivered at the morning hour by the rector, Rev M M Goodwin, from Matthew, 28th chapter, 8th and 9th verses. It was a scholarly discourse on the resurrection, heard by a congregation which completely filled the church. The beautiful music was the Communion service in F by Stainer, under the direction of Bering Burrows, by an octette of young girls, the surpliced boy choir and a double quartette of gentlemen. The music was highly classical in character and consumed one hour in rendition. The voluntary cash offering for the day from the congregation was $600. Mrs L Burrows presented a new prayer book for the reading desk, with the name of the church inscribed on the cover. At the evening hour the Children's Festival was held, and so great was the crowd that scores had to stand outside. The programme was as follows:

Easter Processional	Bundy
Prayer	Rev M M Goodwin
Chorus—Easter Praises	Pabo
Responsive Reading	"Great is the Lord"
Duet—"The Open Portal"	Misses Eva and Challie Downing
Solo—"Did Our Redeemer Die"	Miss Ada Haines
Chorus—"Come Bring the Bright and Blooming Roses"
Responsive Reading	"At the Tomb"
Duet—"The Easter Bell"	Misses Abba Durfee and Blanche Burns
Address	By the Rector

Offertory—"Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead"	Misses Abbie and Dot Durfee
Responsive Reading	"The Redeemed"
Chorus—"Easter Bells"

Rev Goodwin presented a beautiful silver medal to 16 children of the school. It is an Easter medal with figures of the Savior and Mary kneeling, uttering the word "Rabonni"—Master. On the other side the Cross and Crown. Those receiving the medals were Maud Rogers, Dot Durfee, Ray Brenneman, Gertie Hott, Ivy Jones, Bertie Dinges, Hugh Honsum, Earl Bartholomew, Emma Cain, Gussie Hott, Pearl Schulhoff, Anna Curtis, Chas Saxton, Daniel Honsum, Frank Denison, and Fred Hott. The cash offering of the school for the lenten season was $167 42, all the result of five cents invested by each of the children. The largest individual offering was by Edith Race, who gave $15. Mrs Rust's class gave $33 45.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH

There was interesting Easter services at this church yesterday consisting of special music for the occasion and an eloquent sermon by Rev Sophie Gibb from the text, "Lo, I am with you alway." After speaking of the scriptural significance of Easter, she said "I believe this age is growing toward, and rapidly ripening for this wider significance of Easter. It is an age in which is being felt as never before, great mountain high waves of spiritual thought and spiritual understanding. People were never more ready to believe and accept those truths that support the native hope of the heart. They want, however, the pure unadulterated gospel, which is a gospel of true living and true using." There was one addition at the evening service.

ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH

Services have been held every evening at this church during the past week, with good attendance. The church was most beautifully decorated yesterday with potted plants and cut flowers. After the regular opening services a class of seventeen was received as members of the church. Then came the sermon, which was a masterly, logical and well prepared address, the theme of which was "The Shield of Faith," after which the celebration of the Lord's Supper was participated in by the largest number in the history of the congregation. Rev Wagner has only been here about fifteen months, and in that time the membership has been almost doubled, and the debt on the church has almost disappeared.

AT THE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Sunday was in every respect one of the grandest days in the history of the Baptist church. The usual large congregations were present, filling the auditorium above and below. The floral offerings were very fine. A large pyramid of choice flowers was on either end of the pulpit platform in which calla lilies abounded. The music was in keeping with the day and was well rendered. The pastor, Rev Dr Voeburgh, preached a strong Easter sermon in the morning which was well delivered. The thought was fresh and vigorous and held the riveted attention of the large congregation to the close. After the sermon had been delivered twelve new members were buried with Christ in baptism. It was a solemn and impressive sight, and many eyes were filled with tears. At night the pastor preached a stirring gospel sermon on "Neglected Warnings." The congregation was deeply moved. At the close of the sermon, amidst the hushed stillness of a praying congregation, he urged all who had not yet accepted Christ to do so and seven adults responded to the warm hearted appeal. After this the baptismal waters were again visited and 12 adults, six men and six women, were baptized. At the Sunday School in the morning Dr Vosburgh delivered a 20-minute address on the resurrection of Christ. The school was very largely attended. It is advancing in every respect under Superintendent Wayne's management.

Election Frauds in Jersey City.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The investigation into the alleged frauds in connection with the recent election in Jersey City resulted yesterday in the issuance of warrants for the arrest of the members of the election board for the First assembly district of the city. The investigation has developed a remarkable variety of frauds. The prisoners, twelve in number, were arraigned and gave bail to await the action of the grand jury.

Intense Popular Feeling Over the Crewes Murder Case.

SINGULAR STRIKE IN THE SAVOY HOTEL

A Bold Robbery—Attempted Assassination—Fire in the Black Forest—Accident to a Lighthouse—Formal Protest—Emin's Hesitation.

THE CREWE MURDER CASE.

LONDON, April 7.—The popular feeling over the Crewe murder case runs very high and there is no other subject so much talked about. It is generally believed that the elder of the Davies brothers will be hanged to-morrow despite the enormous size of the petition which has been forwarded to the Queen at Aix les Bains for a reprieve. The action of Home Secretary Mathews in reprieving the younger brother has not satisfied the public mind, nor could it be expected to do so, since the brothers were equally guilty if guilty at all. The fact that in attacking their brutal father, they were actuated by the determination to protect their mother is the circumstance which arouses public sympathy on their behalf, and leads many people to openly deny that they are guilty of any crime at all.

As Home Secretary Mathews is absent, the Queen may possibly grant a reprieve temporarily, until she can consult him personally in regard to the case. It is felt that it would be good policy on the part of the government to yield to sentiment in this matter.

A SINGULAR STRIKE

is in progress at the popular Savoy Hotel, on the Thames embankment. A new manager was recently appointed, who was unlucky enough to offend that powerful personage, the chef. The monarch of the kitchen struck work, and his sixty cooks followed his example. The waiters joined the strike, and next came the maids and porters. The hotel is completely upset, and unless the manager makes terms with the chef, the house will lose the benefit of the holiday trade, which is an important item. The city is crowded with visitors and all the places of entertainment and amusement are doing a rushing business. The four-days Easter holiday time has enabled everybody to take an outing. Meanwhile the thieves and swindlers are reaping a great harvest among the excursionists.

A BOLD ROBBERY.

The hotel room of the American Consul at Plauen was entered a night or two ago by burglars and a jewel casket valued at $5 000 was stolen. The casket has since been found, but the contents have been abstracted. There is no clue to the thieves.

THE DOCK LABORERS AT AMSTERDAM are about to renew their strike which was recently settled on terms that have not proved satisfactory to the men.

COUNCILOR STRIEGAN, OF BRASLAU, was fired at through a window of a railway carriage at that place yesterday by unknown persons. The councilor had just taken his seat in the carriage when the shot crashed through the glass and grazed his head. His assailants made their escape.

THE SOCIALIST OF HAMBURG

have purchased the Hamburg Echo, and the journal will henceforth be conducted as an exponent of advanced Social Democracy.

One of the features of the coming exhibition at Bremen will be a plastic panorama representing the steamship Saale entering New York harbor.

STRIKE FOR HIGHER WAGES

The master carpenters of Osnabruck, Hanover, have struck for advanced wages.

ACCIDENT TO A LIGHTHOUSE

LONDON, April 7.—A fog signal in the famous Bell Rock Lighthouse on the Scotch coast, exploded prematurely Saturday night, shattering the dome, and extinguishing the light for the first time since the lighthouse was built, in 1811. Fog signals were employed to warn vessels during the remainder of the night, but one steamer narrowly escaped being wrecked on account of the absence of the beacon.

A FORMAL PROTEST

LONDON, March 7.—The employes of the government arsenal at Woolwich, numbering about ten thousand, have formally protested against the present scale of wages, and threaten to strike. They receive much less than similar workmen in private employment. The metropolitan police force are also talking of striking over the question of pensions.

Zanzibar.

EMIN'S HESITATION

ZANZIBAR, April 7.—Emin Pasha has arrived in this city from Bagamoyo. He does not appear to be particularly anxious to start on the proposed expedition to the interior, and his employes are said to be dissatisfied because of his hesitation. It is reported that he wishes to cancel the engagement, and to return to Europe before deciding definitely as to his plans for the future.

Capture Means Lynching.

AKRON, O., April 7.—At Cayahoga Falls, a few miles north of this city, Saturday, as the eleven-year-old daughter of Night watchman Rhodes was passing along an unfrequented street she was captured by a tramp, who stifled her cries with his hand and carried her into a wood, where he kept her three hours. The child was discovered and taken to a physician, who pronounced her recovery as very doubtful. A posse of one hundred men at once organized to search for the tramp, and all the roads are guarded by horsemen, while the woods and fields are being scoured. Capture means a lynching.

The Crevasse at Catfish Point—A Fatal Accident.

GREENVILLE, Miss., April 6.—The crevasse at Catfish Point was 1,800 feet wide and increasing at last reports. The water from there reached Greenville yesterday morning, and is flooding the first floors of buildings.

Parties arriving here by skiff from Greenwood report a sad condition of affairs in the Sunflower lowlands. Plantations are submerged and buildings are being washed away into the swamps.

The colored people are huddled upon the levees, hungry, cold and shelterless. Many are likely to die of exposure if aid is not received. Tents, food and clothing are greatly needed. The Government boats are doing what they can, but they can not cover the entire field.

Friday while a colored man, with three women, in a skiff, were fleeing from the approaching flood in the Bogus country on the Georgia Pacific railroad the skiff commenced to leak, and before any assistance could be rendered them, the whole party went down. The man had a narrow escape, but the three women were drowned.

Burst Its Borders.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 6.—Showers of unprecedented violence fell in this locality Friday, causing the stream to rise to unusual heights and flooding the lower portion of this city. The dam of the upper reservoir of the Ithaca Water works Company, holding 20,000,000 gallons of water, burst during the night, and when the water plunged through the cliff-bound chasm below the dam it was a terrific torrent eighty-five feet deep.

Fortunately no obstacle lay in its pathway, and when it reached the open valley below the water spread out over the flat surface of the valley and formed a lake which covered the western suburbs of Ithaca yesterday to a depth of three feet. This volume of water, caused by the overflow from two other streams washed out the tracks of the Lehigh Valley and Delaware & Lackawanna roads, suspending traffic until about noon yesterday. Back in the country a number of bridges were carried away but no lives were lost.

Roland Reed Friday Night.

"The Woman Hater" will be given at the Grand Friday night by Roland Reed and his fine company, sale of seats to begin Wednesday morning. The story of the play hinges on Samuel Bundy, who has attained considerable reputation as a woman hater. Far from being a misogynist, he has already made several imaginary wedding tours, and finally becomes engaged to three different widows at one time, and, after going through many startling and amusing complications, is finally confined by mistake in a private lunatic asylum. There is a very pretty love story running through the entire play. The supporting company is said to be the best that Mr Reed has ever had, and comprises many clever people, prominent among them being Miss Isadore Rush, Mrs. Mary Myer, Miss May De Mar, H. Rees Davies, Harry A. Smith, Ernest Bertram, Julian Reed, William C. Andrews, Max Fehrmann and James Douglass.

THERE is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore it requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucus surface of the system. They offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars, free.

TWENTY-FOUR YEARS OLD.

Easter Celebration of the Birth of the G. A. R. in Decatur.

Patriotic Address by Rev W H Penhallegon in the Presence of a Large Audience.

An important celebration in the history of the patriotic order of the Grand Army of the Republic was observed Sunday night at the Grand Opera House, it being the 24th anniversary of the birth of the organization in the United States, the first post having been formed in Decatur by Dr. Stephenson, April 6, 1866, with 12 charter members There are six surviving charter members of the first post—J. T. Bishop, of Bradford, Pa.; C. Riebsame, of Bloomington, M. F. Kanan, G. R Steele, Dr. Sibley and I N. Coltrin, of Decatur. Comrades Kanan, Sibley, Steele and Coltrin occupied front seats at the historical meeting last night.

The stage displayed the tasteful Presbyterian Easter floral decorations of a bell and a huge bank of flowers which resembled a massive chair, and at each side of the stage was a stand of guns, surmounted by small flags

The parquette seats were reserved for the members of Dunham Post, No. 141, Grand Army of the Republic, the Woman's Relief Corps, Col. I C Pugh Camp, No. 14, Sons of Veterans, the Decatur Guards and the Decatur Zouaves and each organization was largely represented, the Guards and Zouaves appearing in neat uniforms The lower floor was crowded, as was also the balcony, while the gallery was well filled.

THE EXERCISES.

At 7 30 o'clock the services began with the voluntary "O come let us sing" by the choir, Miss Anna Berry, Miss Clara Eyman, Ralph Templeton and Joe Alexander, with Will Heilman at the organ, invocation by the pastor, Lord's Prayer response by the choir, responsive reading of the 24th Psalm by pastor and congregation, trio, "O, Love Divine," by Miss Berry and Messrs. Templeton and Alexander, reading of scripture lesson, 2 Chronicles, 4 34-42, hymn, "Great God of Nations," by choir and congregation, prayer by the pastor, offertory by Miss Berry, Antiphone by pastor and choir, hymn, "Thou by Heavenly Hosts Adored."

SERMON—"THE CITIZEN SOLDIER."

The address of the occasion was delivered by Rev. W. H Penhallegon It was a patriotic sermon on the noble deeds of the living and dead, coupled with an eloquent eulogy to the citizen soldiery especially, not omitting deserved praise to the leaders in the Rebellion. It was an address which commanded the closest attention. It is commended and praised by all who heard it. We have space for only an outline of the eloquent tribute.

The text was the 34th and 35th verses of the sixth chapter of II. Chronicles. He said It has been the custom in all ages to do honor to the National defenders of a country—to the brave dead and the heroic living, and how worthy of grateful remembrance are those who have done so much. In all struggles of the Grecians, Romans and Spartans, and the courageous act of Leonidas in defending the pass, the impelling principles and motives were love of country; but the patriotism of the Grand Army of the Republic was deeper, broader, higher—they fought for liberty, a principle as broad as humanity, clear as light and deep as love The boys in blue braved the jaws of death in the grand, gallant and successful struggle for equal rights and human liberty—equal rights for all. * * Proudly and gratefully in praise and prayer we voice our gratitude to those who went forth in the defense of our country. God was recognized in the great struggle. It is related that an ex-governor of Illinois was wont to rush into the very fiercest of the fight exclaiming "Come on, boys, there's a God in Israel!" It is in history that soldiers in battle remember religion—coupling patriotism with religion, thus becoming more powerful. America represents the sentiment and future of the world It was a foreign official who said "The City of Washington is the summit of the world." Well may we join with the bard in saying "God hath not dealt so with any nation. * * On this anniversary occasion, commemorative of the birth of the Grand Army of the Republic in Decatur, we meet with the living to honor them and also the dead, to renew our gratitude to Almighty God that not a stripe of the flag of our country is erased nor a star removed, for the free air we breathe, and to teach our children the principles of patriotism So long as we remember the deeds of the brave living and dead and so long as the sons of soldiers are with us, so long will our flag, the flag of Yorktown as well as Gettysburg, float above the heads of a united and happy people. * * * The saddest picture has its compensation. No one was more sensitive to national sins and danger than the speaker, but he had no room for doubt or fear, as we look to the future. No evils stare us in the face that are greater than those behind us—conquered Think of the religious victories for which Stephen and Appanacious died, of the triumphs for which Socrates, Milton and others sacrificed so much, and of Lovejoy who was shot down in the streets of Alton for defending a fundamental principle of freedom. Oh, that these men and Lovejoy and the gallant Ellsworth could have lived to see the victories achieved! The world moves, and it moves in the right direction. Brief references were made to the utterances of Jefferson Davis and others who conspired to destroy this country, and of the attitude of England and France in the struggle. * * We have much to be grateful for in what has already been accomplished, and we will successfully grapple with intemperance. Nothing is too difficult if we put our trust in God, the great leader of nations * * * * Old soldiers can best appreciate the significance of these services. You think of your comrades, the song and story of the camp, the hard marches, the terrible battles, the wounding and death of comrades, your care and attention, and you will recall the brave leaders, Wallace, McClernand, Rosengrantz, Hancock, Custer, Burnsides, Garfield, Thomas, Sheridan, Sherman, the loyal Logan, and Grant, who had the courage of a lion and the grip of a bulldog, a man who was fit to stand by Cæsar, a man who grappled with difficulties as did Hercules and the man who at the last said "Let us have peace" Full measure of praise and grateful remembrance belong to the citizen soldier, the volunteer in battle, who fought for a great principle, the love of freedom and the love of home, every bullet he fired being a protest against treason Hail him as the citizen soldier, the hero of the war, the pledge of America's future—the hero of the army. But do not forget John Brown, who with his last breath, as he kissed a negro babe in its mother's arms said, "I die for thee." And don't forget the noblest Roman of them all, the martyred President, Abraham Lincoln, the manly man, the keen representative of the people, who with one stroke of his pen struck the shackles from four million slaves * * * Seek to keep the fires of patriotism burning in the homes, and while you live, old soldiers, you need have no fear but that the principles for which you fought will prevail, for your sons and their children follow you in patriotic devotion and will do our land good as God makes us good—our land the garden of the world and the garden of the Lord.

The impressive service closed with the national hymn, "America" and the benediction by the pastor.

THE park question will doubtless cut something of a figure in the coming city election. The east side want a park, and many there are who think if the city funds are to be expended in fitting up a public resort that the money would be better expended at once on land which the city may own and control for all time to come.

Barton's Leforgee's Funeral.

The deep sympathy of the people for Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Leforgee, in the loss of their only and beloved child, Barton, whose 16th birthday was March 11th, and who met his death in the Sangamon river by accidental drowning, found expression Sunday afternoon in the great outpouring of the public to attend the funeral service, which was held at the Christian church at 3 30 o'clock. Hundreds of people were unable to gain admission, and they stood outside during the exercises. The casket, covered with floral tributes, was carried from the residence to the church, preceded by the clergyman and followed by relatives and friends The floral tributes included a large and beautiful pillow inscribed "Our Darling Boy," by the parents, five bouquets of cut flowers from friends, three baskets of flowers from the family and friends, a beautiful combination of anchor, star and cross, mounted, and mounted star by the Literary Society. The High School faculty, Supt. Gastman and members of the third year class of the school attended in a body. The choir comprised Mrs. K. Harwood, Miss Nettie Pritchett, D. L. Bunn, Bert Gher, and T. A. Pritchett with Miss Ada Pritchett at the organ, "Home, Sweet Home," which was a favorite of the deceased and one which he played on a mouth harp, "Home of the Soul," "Beloved, It Is Well," and "Go Bury Thy Sorrow," were the musical selections. Rev. W B Allen, of the Bethel, gave the scripture reading, and Rev. W. H Penhallegon, of the Presbyterian church, offered a tender prayer. The sermon was delivered by the pastor, Rev. T. W. Pinkerton, who spoke in broken words of love and remembrance of the deceased, who had so suddenly passed away—a bright young man of 16, who but a month ago had been baptized and received into the church. He spoke especially of his manliness, his devotion to his parents and his charity in all things, and offered such words of consolation to the stricken parents as would come from a heart that had been wrung with a similar sorrow. The text was 2d Timothy, 1st chapter, 12th verse, which was found marked in the notebook of the deceased. So great was the crowd that the service was nearly one hour and a half in duration. The pall-bearers were Will Parish, Will Pluck, Will Eichinger, Lute Roby, Fred Stoner and Samuel Kaylor. The remains were placed in the vault at Greenwood witnessed by a large concourse of people. The final interment will occur later

THE jury at the inquest held Saturday evening over the body of Barton Leforgee returned a verdict of accidental drowning. The remains were taken to the family residence at 9 o'clock that evening and were viewed by all who called up to about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

THE knight Templar services will be found on the on the first page of this issue The account includes a synopsis of Rev Scrimger's sermon.

Fire and Accidents.

Smoke was seen to issue from the second floor front room over 257 South Park street Sunday afternoon and the department was called out to break into the room to discover no fire—only smoke Mrs. Morelock, the occupant, had gone out and left a big fire in the stove

Leaving the Morgan street fire house with the old Alert hook and ladder truck, which has no brake, Barney Gilligan, the driver, was thrown from his seat and seriously bruised about the hips Part of the harness broke and the horse could not be controlled John Duffy jumped in the rig and vainly tried to stop the horse He dashed on west on Cerro Gordo street and in front of the Bethel at Water street collided with a pole, which collision shattered the front end of the truck and came near ending the life of Duffy. The horse got away and Duffy escaped only slightly bruised The horse was caught unhurt in the western part of the city. That old truck ought to be condemned and a new one built for the department.

BUSINESS IS BUSINESS.

A YOUNG MAN ADOPTED THE ABOVE AS A MOTTO AND GOT RICH.

"Men Don't Do What They Like; They Do What They Can"—This Young Man Understood Pickles, and Into Pickles He Went—Good Advice.

There lives in the city of New York a man who has accumulated quite a fortune by simply advising people what to do. There always will be a large number of persons who are unable to rely on their own judgment; others come to a conclusion with ease and certainty.

A young man had accumulated a thousand dollars, and was debating whether he should buy a small candy store with it, or whether he should lend it on a mortgage. This latter he knew was the secure way; the other promised great profits. In this perplexity he saw an advertisement, "Advice given to those going into business."

After stating his case the counselor said: "My fee will be $5 in advance."

When this was paid he asked: "Do you understand the candy business?"

"No; I did not think it was necessary. I expect to supervise it generally."

"Then you will lose all your money in three months."

"You think I had better lend the money on the mortgage?"

"I do not say that. What is your business; that is, what do you perfectly understand?"

"I know the pickle business through and through. I can make pickles of all kinds, but I do not like it."

"Never mind what you like. Go and get a small place and make pickles; go from hotel to hotel, restaurant to restaurant, and sell them. In ten years come back and see me; you will have $10,000 at least."

As the young man was going away he was called back.

"Here is a card. I want you to put it where you can see it a hundred times a day." These were the words on the card: "Business is business. Men don't do what they like, they do what they can."

THE FASCINATING CARD.

The card had a strange fascination for him; he read it with care as he walked along the street. As he studied it, new light seemed to enter his mind.

He found a dingy basement, and began to arrange for his operations. Of course vinegar must be got, several barrels of it; some was offered him at ten cents a gallon, some more was shown at five cents. "Which shall I take?" He thought of the words on his card. He seemed to see people testing his pickles, and, not liking them, depart without buying. "They will know good vinegar," thought he, and so he bought the honest stuff.

In a few days several tubs of materials were ready, and he knew he must market them. Now he greatly dreaded to face strange people and push his goods upon their notice. He never had courage when a boy, and now as a young man he felt more timid it seemed. But he thought of the words of the card, and entered a restaurant. The evident manager was a blooming young woman, and the pickle dealer was more afraid of women than men. But "business is business" repeated itself over and over in his mind.

The answer to his statement was that his pickles would be tried, and, if found all right, would be purchased.

"Glad I got that good vinegar," thought the young man; and he began to feel that there was a certain power in the maxim his adviser had given. He began to feel a courage he had never expected in meeting people and trying to sell his goods to them.

Calling at a store to get, if possible, an order for pickles in bottles, he was quickly and rudely met with, "Don't want to see any such stuff." Noticing the utter dismay on the young man's face, the merchant said, short and sharp: "Don't you know enough of business to put up your goods attractively?"

As he retreated, ruffled and disheartened, the maxim repeated itself over and over with this additional sentence: "It is business to put up goods attractively." He sought out a lithographer and had some handsomely colored labels printed. "They will buy the bottles," said the friend, "just for the picture you have on them."

APPRECIATED ADVICE.

When he had gained sufficient courage he again sought out the merchant who had rebuffed him. "I have come to make you a present of a bottle of fine pickles."

"Why do you make me a present of them?"

"Because you gave me advice that was worth a great deal."

The morning of one Fourth of July came, and he pondered whether to go to his store or not. All at once he thought, people going on picnics will want pickles. It was the magic words on the little card that ran through his mind. He found, as he had thought, a large number of buyers waiting for him.

The little card was consulted in all sorts of weather. If a man made a proposition to him of any kind, and he was in doubt, he would go and look at the words, though he knew them by heart already. One day a cheese merchant came to persuade him to buy his stock.

"People," said he, "who buy pickles always buy cheese; you will do a big trade." It was a temptation. He went and looked at the words and studied them intently, trying to think out their application to the case in hand. "Men do what they can," he reflected. "I would like to sell cheese, but I know I can sell pickles;" then he returned. Now he was resolute and firm, although by nature easily bent and swayed by the words of others.

"Business is business," he said. "I am in the pickle business; if I cannot make money in this I shall quit and go into something else; but I shall not have two kinds on my hands."

When the ten years were up of course he had the $10,000, and more, too.—Treasure Trove.

Trout and Superstition.

The trout is derived from a word meaning to eat, just as salmon from one meaning to leap. The former fish has acquired some celebrity in folk medicine. Thus it is a superstition of Shropshire that a pie dish full of cider should be taken down to a river and a good sized trout caught and drowned in the cider, would a person recover from the whooping cough. Trout and cider were then to be carefully carried back to the house, and the sick person must eat the trout after it has been fried and drink the cider. In Northumberland for the same ailment a trout's head is put into the mouth of the sufferer, and, as it is said, the trout is left to breathe in the patient's mouth. Still more curiously, Mr. Henderson relates that a friend, when fishing in Cleveland, was asked by a peasant to give him a "wick" (live) trout to lay on the stomach of one of his children who was much troubled with worms, a trout so applied being a certain cure for the complaint.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Nine Tailors Make a Man.

Everybody has heard of the saying that it takes nine tailors to make a man, and the general supposition is that it reflects upon tailors in some indefinite manner, and no one knows where the saying originated. Now, the truth is that the saying is misquoted, and the proper word is tailers, or tellers, not tailors, as often written, and its origin can be traced back several centuries.

It was one of the customs when a person died in the parish to toll the church bell once for every year of the deceased's life. But nobody from this could tell the sex of the departed, so the sexton, to gratify public curiosity, after ringing in the usual way the number of years, would give eight quick strokes if the deceased was a woman and nine if it was a man. This being rung at the end of the strokes for the years were called tailers, and thus nine tailers made a man.—Golden Days.

"Like Magic,"

THE effect produced by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Colds, Coughs, Croup, and Sore Throat are, in most cases, immediately relieved by the use of this wonderful remedy. It strengthens the vocal organs, allays irritation, and prevents the inroads of Consumption; in every stage of that dread disease, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral relieves coughing and induces refreshing rest.

"I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my family for thirty years and have always found it the best remedy for croup, to which complaint my children have been subject."—Capt. U. Carley, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"From an experience of over thirty years in the sale of proprietary medicines, I feel justified in recommending Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. One of the best recommendations of the Pectoral is the enduring quality of its popularity, it being more salable now than it was twenty-five years ago, when its great success was considered marvelous."—R. S. Drake, M. D., Beliot, Kans.

"My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from bronchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine; saying that he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with the most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This has given me unbounded faith in the preparation, and I recommend it confidently to my customers."—C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind.

We [illegible] filling in advance the furrows with loose dirt of the seed, the wheels at the heel of the runners are also utilized to perfectly gauge the depth and crush the clods betwixt the wheel and the runner, the rear wheels lapping the soil over. INSPECT CRITICALLY the dropper. It works easily. Is simple and sure stroke. It loses but one drop instead of two in a miss as others do. The back-throw of the second drop is corrective of variation from check caused by an irregular gait. WRITE FOR CIRCULAR EXPLAINING DETAILS.

It is obvious that the easier a rower works the better the general average result. It should work light enough so that the pounding force on the check-line will not be liable to drive it from its checking position. The HAWORTH is adapted to run a slack check-wire that conforms to the lay of the land, by which the wearing life is much increased and better work, with less skill to work it, is done. The only rower that successfully lays the check-wire over. Can plant right after the breaking plows when the clods are easily pulverized or in rough or hilly land and clear to the end with equal accuracy. The check-wire is a guide to drive by. ☞ THE ANCHORS ARE SELF-RELEASING.

POINTS.

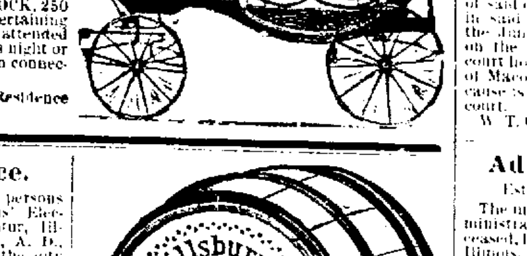

☞ One-third lightest draft.
☞ No neck weight.
☞ Rear wheels and runners elevated in turning.
☞ Covering wheels set to or from the furrow.
☞ Scrapers automatic.
☞ Drill attachment complete.
☞ We make a cross-over wire combined with planter, so that it can't get out of adjustment. Also a side-wire rower specially adapted for the Haworth Planter.
☞ It works easily.

The "STANDARD"

ROTARY SHUTTLE

SEWING MACHINE.

BEST ON EARTH.

Finest of the fine, runs one-half faster, one-half easier, and makes one-half the noise the old style shuttle machine. The continuous rotary motion is the only true principle for a sewing machine.

The world's oldest veterans in sewing machine invention and manufacturing are at the head of the "STANDARD" Sewing Machine Company. Keep up with the times, and get the best. It will pay you better to buy the "STANDARD" than to receive one of the old style machines as a gift. The rotary principle applied to the sewing machine is as great an improvement as the band saw is to the old fashioned jig saw.
